

Amendment to the Abstract

Please amend the Abstract in the following manner:

In a wireless network communications device, transmit power levels may be interactively adjusted to dynamically maintain a desired level of network loading and/or data throughput within the network in a changing network environment.